

POTATO HILL FARM at the East Row Garden Club February meeting. East Row neighbors Celine and Ron Quinn, owners of Potato Hill Farm, located near Augusta, Kentucky, graciously filled in at the last minute for the scheduled speaker who cancelled due to sickness. Since 2006 they have spent weekends taking on the farm as a project and improving the land and buildings. Currently they host numerous events for outings, weddings, and accommodations which often feature their 3 donkeys. For more information see their website www.potatohillfarm.com

Celine and Ron Quinn (second and third from the left) stayed around long after their presentation with people asking questions and chatting.

Many happy neighbors attended and joined the lively crowd.

People enjoyed food and libations before the meeting and presentation.

Tables filled up quickly and everyone enjoyed the evening out.