

GOOD TREES FOR BAD PLACES at the East Row Garden Club April meeting. The meeting invitation stated: "We are lucky to have Scott Beuerlein for our April speaker. Scott is the Manager of Botanical Outreach at the Cincinnati Zoo & Botanical Garden. He is heavily involved in running the Zoo's Botanical Garden educational programs. He has also published hundreds of articles in several publications. Currently, he is a Partner in the Garden Rant blogsite. Scott also authors the Deep Roots and Garden Views columns for Horticulture Magazine."

His hilarious talk was actually titled "BadA-- Trees for P--- Poor Places", which has been cleaned up for the internet's innocent sensibilities (sarcasm). For more information see his website www.scottbeuerlein.com

Speaker Scott Beuerlein, center, after his talk and before the short ERGC regular meeting.

View of a good turnout – from the front of the room for a change.

Happy attendees.

A rear table enjoying snacks and beverages.

One of the recommended "Bad—" tree species